From Voyages Unreturning
Conversation Pieces

A Small Paperback Series from Aqueduct Press
Subscriptions available: www.aqueductpress.com

1. The Grand Conversation
   Essays by L. Timmel Duchamp

2. With Her Body
   Short Fiction by Nicola Griffith

3. Changeling
   A Novella by Nancy Jane Moore

4. Counting on Wildflowers
   An Entanglement by Kim Antieau

5. The Traveling Tide
   Short Fiction by Rosaleen Love

6. The Adventures of the Faithful Counselor
   A Narrative Poem by Anne Sheldon

7. Ordinary People
   A Collection by Eleanor Arnason

8. Writing the Other A Practical Approach
   by Nisi Shawl & Cynthia Ward

9. Alien Bootlegger
   A Novella by Rebecca Ore

10. The Red Rose Rages (Bleeding)
    A Short Novel by L. Timmel Duchamp

11. Talking Back: Epistolary Fantasies edited by L. Timmel Duchamp

12. Absolute Uncertainty
    Short Fiction by Lucy Sussex

13. Candle in a Bottle
    A Novella by Carolyn Ives Gilman
14. Knots
   Short Fiction by Wendy Walker
15. Naomi Mitchison: A Profile of Her Life and Work
   A Monograph by Lesley A. Hall
16. We, Robots
   A Novella by Sue Lange
17. Making Love in Madrid
   A Novella by Kimberly Todd Wade
18. Of Love and Other Monsters
   A Novella by Vandana Singh
19. Aliens of the Heart
   Short Fiction by Carolyn Ives Gilman
20. Voices From Fairyland:
    The Fantastical Poems of Mary Coleridge, Charlotte
    Mew, and Sylvia Townsend Warner
    Edited and With Poems by Theodora Goss
21. My Death
    A Novella by Lisa Tuttle
22. De Secretis Mulierum
    A Novella by L. Timmel Duchamp
23. Distances
    A Novella by Vandana Singh
24. Three Observations and a Dialogue:
    Round and About SF
    Essays by Sylvia Kelso and a correspondence with Lois McMaster Bujold
25. The Buonarotti Quartet
    Short Fiction by Gwyneth Jones
26. Slightly Behind and to the Left Four Stories & Three Drabbles by Claire Light
27. Through the Drowsy Dark Short Fiction and Poetry by Rachel Swirsky
28. Shotgun Lullabies Stories and Poems by Sheree Renée Thomas
29. A Brood of Foxes
    A Novella by Kristin Livdahl
30. The Bone Spindle
    Poems and Short Fiction by Anne Sheldon
31. The Last Letter
   A Novella by Fiona Lehn
32. We Wuz Pushed
   On Joanna Russ and Radical Truth-Telling
   by Lee Mandelo
33. The Receptionist and Other Tales
   Poems by Lesley Wheeler
34. Birds and Birthdays Stories by Christopher Barzak
35. The Queen, the Cambion, and Seven Others
   Stories by Richard Bowes
36. Spring in Geneva
   A Novella by Sylvia Kelso
37. The XY Conspiracy
   A Novella by Lori Selke
38. Numa
   An Epic Poem by Katrinka Moore
39. Myths, Metaphors, and Science Fiction:
    Ancient Roots of the Literature of the Future
    Essays by Sheila Finch
40. NoFood
    Short Fiction by Sarah Tolmie
41. The Haunted Girl
    Poems and Short Stories by Lisa M. Bradley
42. Three Songs for Roxy
    A Novella by Caren Gussoff
43. Ghost Signs
    Poems and a Short Story by Sonya Taaffe
44. The Prince of the Aquamarines & The Invisible Prince: Two Fairy Tales by Louise Cavelier Levesque
45. Back, Belly, and Side: True Lies and False Tales Short Fiction by Celeste Rita Baker
46. A Day in Deep Freeze
    A Novella by Lisa Shapter
47. A Field Guide to the Spirits
    Poems by Jean LeBlanc
48. Marginalia to Stone Bird Poems by R.B. Lemberg

49. Unpronounceable
   A Novella by Susan diRende

50. Sleeping Under the Tree of Life
   Poetry and Short Fiction by Sheree Renée Thomas

51. Other Places
   Short Fiction by Karen Heuler

52. Monteverde: Memoirs of an Interstellar Linguist
   A Novella by Lola Robles, translated by Lawrence Schimel

53. The Adventure of the Incognita Countess
   A Novella by Cynthia Ward

54. Boundaries, Border Crossings, and Reinventing the Future
    Essays and Short Fiction by Beth Plutchak

55. Liberating the Astronauts
    Poems by Christina Rau

56. In Search of Lost Time
    A Novella by Karen Heuler

57. Cosmovore
    Poems by Kristi Carter

58. Helen’s Story
    A Novella by Rosanne Rabinowitz

59. Liminal Spaces
    Short Fiction by Beth Plutchak

60. Feed Me the Bones of Our Saints
    Short Fiction by Alex Dally MacFarlane

61. If Not Skin: Collected Transformations Poems and Short Fiction by Toby MacNutt

62. The Adventure of the Dux Bellorum
    A Novella by Cynthia Ward

63. People Change
    Short Fiction and Poems by Gwynne Garfinkle

64. Invocabulary
    Poems by Gemma Files

65. The Green and Growing
    A Novella by Erin K. Wagner
66. Everything is Made of Letters
   Short Fiction by Sofía Rhei

67. Midnight at the Organporium
   Short Fiction by Tara Campbell

68. Algorithmic Shapeshifting
   Poems by Bogi Takács

69. The Rampant
   A Novella by Julie C. Day

70. Mary Shelley Makes a Monster
   Poems by Octavia Cade

71. Articulation
   Short Plays to Nourish the Mind & Soul
   by Cesi Davidson

72. City of a Thousand Feelings
   A Novella by Anya Johanna DeNiro

73. Ancient Songs of Us
   Poems by Jean LeBlanc

74. The Adventure of the Naked Guide
   A Novella by Cynthia Ward

75. Sacred Summer
   Poems by Cassandra Clarke

76. Disease
   Short Fiction by Sarah Tolmie

77. Goddess Bandit of the Thousand Arms
   Poems by Hal Y. Zhang

78. Resistance and Transformation: On Fairy Tales Essays by Mari Ness

79. The Silences of Ararat
   A Novella by L. Timmel Duchamp

80. Cabinet of Wrath: A Doll Collection
   Short Fiction by Tara Campbell

81. The Adventure of the Golden Woman
   A Novella by Cynthia Ward

82. Fricatives
   Short Plays to Nourish the Mind & Soul
   by Cesi Davidson
83. We’ve Been Here Before
   Poems by Anne Carly Abad
84. Bilabials
   Short Plays to Nourish the Mind & Soul
   by Cesi Davidson
85. When Home, No Need to Cry
   Short Fiction by Erin K. Wagner
86. Apollo Weeps
   A Novella by Xian Mao
87. To the Woman in the Pink Hat
   A Novella by LaToya Jordan
88. From Voyages Unreturning
   Poems by Deborah L. Davitt
89. Numinous Stones
   Poems by Holly Lyn Walrath
About the Aqueduct Press
Conversation Pieces Series

The feminist engaged with sf is passionately interested in challenging the way things are, passionately determined to understand how everything works. It is my constant sense of our feminist-sf present as a grand conversation that enables me to trace its existence into the past and from there see its trajectory extending into our future. A genealogy for feminist sf would not constitute a chart depicting direct lineages but would offer us an ever-shifting, fluid mosaic, the individual tiles of which we will probably only ever partially access. What could be more in the spirit of feminist sf than to conceptualize a genealogy that explicitly manifests our own communities across not only space but also time?

Aqueduct’s small paperback series, Conversation Pieces, aims to both document and facilitate the “grand conversation.” The Conversation Pieces series presents a wide variety of texts, including short fiction (which may not always be sf and may not necessarily even be feminist), essays, speeches, manifestoes, poetry, interviews, correspondence, and group discussions. Many of the texts are reprinted material, but some are new. The grand conversation reaches at least as far back as Mary Shelley and extends, in our speculations and visions, into the continually created future. In Jonathan Goldberg’s words, “To look forward to the history that will be, one must look at and retell the history that has been told.” And that is what Conversation Pieces is all about.

L. Timmel Duchamp

Conversation Pieces
Volume 88

From Voyages Unreturning

by Deborah L. Davitt
For my husband, Jason, who always gives me the freedom to fly.
Contents

<table> <thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr> </thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Finding Yourself</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Joy of the Journey</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In Cryosleep</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Black Hole World</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No Going Back</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Eye of God</td>
<td>17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wolf 1061c</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Garden of the Galaxy</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOI 700</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Falling from Heaven</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Home</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Hollow Shell</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Inner Space</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Seat of Thought</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dream and Memory</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hope and Despair</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>And Yet Perhaps Not</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alone/Home</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Not Quite the Crouching Leviathan......................... 65
Confessions Unvoiced ........................................... 67
Destination: Past ................................................... 71
Whispering Truths into the Void .............................. 75
Like a Guillemot ................................................... 79
Expiation................................................................. 81
Leaving the Past Behind ........................................ 85
Microcosms............................................................. 87
The Crux of the Matter .......................................... 89
The Joys of Journeys Shared................................. 93
Finding Yourself

They say that in order to find yourself you have to start looking; you thought that meant to voyage within like the ancient Greeks:
know thyself

but it didn’t work;

introspection only takes you where you have already been;
the internal black hole where all your past experiences achieve the critical mass of self-hood but from which light so rarely escapes.

Light travels, both wave and particle through every possible path between its source and the perceiving eye photons are quantum ghosts or maybe gods everywhere at once until they aren’t;
so seeing yourself in a mirror only shows the collapse of reality.

You needed another point of view so you set off on a journey that might show you who you really are.
The Joy of the Journey

For some, the joy of a journey is about keeping score. Not low-key; they abhor, adore—an alloy!— what they foreswore…and then play coy.

Boredom annoys, ennui’s a disease;
they soar out the door for the seas.
Pour a drink or join a convoy;
implore god for wonder, shout ahoy!

More that’s strange to enjoy, carefree;
from civil war to shop debris, lore unhinged or Helen of Troy;
eat a polypore, snap a wolf boy.

Just don’t snore; employ no latchkey.
Cry for awe—ploy its apogee.
In Cryosleep

Even traveling at superluminal speeds staying young while everyone you ever knew (all those you left behind) grows old and turns to dust space travel still takes time.

Of course, every journey, even life itself proceeds in space as well as time, but for you, you’ve decided, that it’s better to spend the long durations between tourist hotspots in suspended animation—even the most questing mind wearies of crosswords and sudoku, runs out of interesting articles to read.

But no matter how slowed your metabolism in cryosleep, you still dream—(the doctors say it’s not possible, that the ultradian sleep cycle never oscillates into the shimmering patterns of REM) and yet you do, seeing again all the places you have been,
and the places you will never stand.

The diamond mountains of 55 Cancri E, edged in wonder, knife-sharp against its leaden sky as the blaze of its too-close star edges the horizon;
you stand at the terminus between sunrise and sunset on this never-turning world, a screaming wind from the planet’s dark side blasting you towards its star-scorched day.

Though in these dreams you’re on the surface crushed by its gravity without an exoskeleton, as unable to move as jelly on a plate, you’re also somehow untouched by heat that should melt iron into slag.

You cannot flee the horror, as your heart beats wild in terror, or escape the wonder of the star’s searing rays as they blind you through those prismatic peaks rainbows piercing you,
the ant under their condensing glare;
until the dream shifts, showing you that you’re not alone—that those you’ve left behind are there to share both dread and awe.

You meet their eyes —father, mother, sister, brother, son all dead and gone to dust—and awake, tears burning like acid in the arid ducts left desert-dry by cryosleep.

They were here; they were there, as close as dreams and as distant as all eternity.
Black Hole World

This planet orbits on the edge of time:
a million-year circuit of the abyss and blueshifted light that sears in UV—and in its heavens, dark infinity.

A million-year circuit of the abyss
where gravity slows time’s relative dance.
And in these heavens, dark infinity means that your dreams take an eternity.

Where gravity slows time’s relative dance,
it’s easier to slow life’s frantic pace;
when your dreams take almost eternity,
you face the future with sanguinity.

It’s easier to slow life’s frantic pace
on this world that orbits the edge of time;
you face the future with sanguinity
despite blueshifted light that sears in UV.
No Going Back

With time-dilation being what it is you’re not sure how many years you spent on that black hole world staring up into a sky in which streams of fiery gas plunged into nothingness—

a year there might have been a century outside of the black hole’s grasp;
and when you emerge from the cocoon of time bent and spindled
by gravity,

the galaxy’s changed,
and now, more than ever,
you’ve traveled in time as well as space.

You hitch a ride on a new ship, (or maybe one that’s ancient) but the vessel’s a living thing, its interior full of silken organic membranes—you worry, now and then, that it might well digest you in payment for services rendered; there’s a quacksalver aboard just temporarily between stars, who claims that a good course of nanite treatment will cure what ails you, will fix all your serotonin imbalances, with maybe a nice colonic to the brainstem.

You can’t tell this so-called doctor, your would-be confessor, that what ails you isn’t a physical malaise, but the malignant effects of time wearing on the soul, and the knowledge that there’s no going back to who you were before.
The Eye of God

Your living ship, with its organic circuits and self-aware mind, sings as it achieves superluminal speeds.

Time for you should now be bending backwards relative to those you left behind, the redshift of the entropic universe briefly turning violet.

You emerge from the silken cocoon that embraces you warmly during such leaps, and out the front ports, you see the Eye of God, the Helix Nebula, in true-color, the kind perceived by the human eye, not cameras or telescopes.

The outer edge is rimmed red as if with tears or care; your own itch in sympathy;
the center’s limpid blue, like a lake high in the mountains that you once visited as a child, as blue as the skies of Earth, so long departed—

and yet it burns, burns with the heat of a dying star.

You rest your hand against the bulkhead and ask the ship, “Why are you showing me this?”

The great beast doesn’t answer.
But it dives right in,
dipping and playing through the maelstrom, gulping deep draughts of hydrogen and oxygen, and you sink with it into wonder, watching comets as they flee their ancient home, streaks of white against the night.

And finally you ask,
your voice soft, “Please, take me to where something is being born.”
Wolf 1061c

The ship has never yet told you its name (if it has one) and you don’t speak its strange language so much like whale-song double and triple harmonics strange dissonances; but it understands you, or at least, you think it does.

It takes you to a young dwarf red star, a dull-glowing ember, and from there, to one of the planets locked in its embrace; a strange place, one side tidally bound to its star, the other, cast into perpetual night.

The sun-blasted deserts of day-side boast mats of lichen on the undersides of rocks; simooms stirred by stellar fingers rage across the whole hemisphere, bringing dust and warmth and life onto the night-side; here, in darkness, great lakes shimmer under three distant moons;
algal mats bloom with subtle phosphorescence;
here, the fungal kingdom raises tall, bare stumps, and mats of stringy rhizoids conduct water from lakes and streams deeper inland;

here, the few animals are huge-eyed amphibians adapted to the pale moonlight; a few more mobile fungi bridge the gap between animal and plant;
slime-mold analogues creep over the world, taking the place of ants
in this bizarre ecology;

and all of them wait for the storms to roll in, bringing the taste of dust,
the feel of warmth, throughout their endless night.

They exist; they evolve,
but if they ascend,
you cannot see it.

“This is a wonder,” you tell the ship,
“but it isn’t what I meant, not at all.”